

Roger Brewster

Controller

Roger Brewster holds an MBA in Finance and an MPH in Biostatistics from Columbia University, he also completed the professional certificate program in Accounting from New York University. Most recently with Gazelle Management he consulted with small businesses on financial performance and provided accounting and tax services to both businesses and individuals. Brewster also holds the designation of an Enrolled Agent and has represented tax clients before the IRS.

Prior to Gazelle Management he was the Director of Finance at the Women's Prison Association where he oversaw all financial system, reporting, and IT functions. Managed a staff of 6 FTEs. Implemented and strengthened financial systems and controls, including budgeting and forecasting and financial operations. As the chief financial officer he was responsible for overall financial management including: cash management, banking, accounts receivable, accounts payable, fixed assets, general ledger, taxes, payroll, budgeting, forecasting, contract negotiation and review, and financial reporting.

Brewster has held other positions as the controller at financial manager at such organizations as the New York Foundling Hospital, the YWCA National Board and AT&T Corp. He also has a Real Estate Salesperson license and teaches Quickbooks and Bookkeeping evening courses at Lehman College.